Challenge definition: GBV in South Africa

GBV is violence that targets a person based on their gender or that disproportionately impacts people of a specific gender.

According to the World Health Organization, South Africa has the highest stats for GBV in the world. 1 in 3 women has experienced physical or sexual violence in her lifetime.

Causes for GBV are:

- Unequal power dynamics between genders
- Substance abuse
- Negative gender stereotypes
- Lack of social and emotional support
- Mental health and psychological factors

03

Proposed Solution

Objective: Reduce gender-based violence (GBV) through accessible, real-time support

Platform: Mobile app with built-in safety features

Target Users: Victims or potential victims of GBV

Impact: Empowers users with tools to act quickly and safely during emergencies

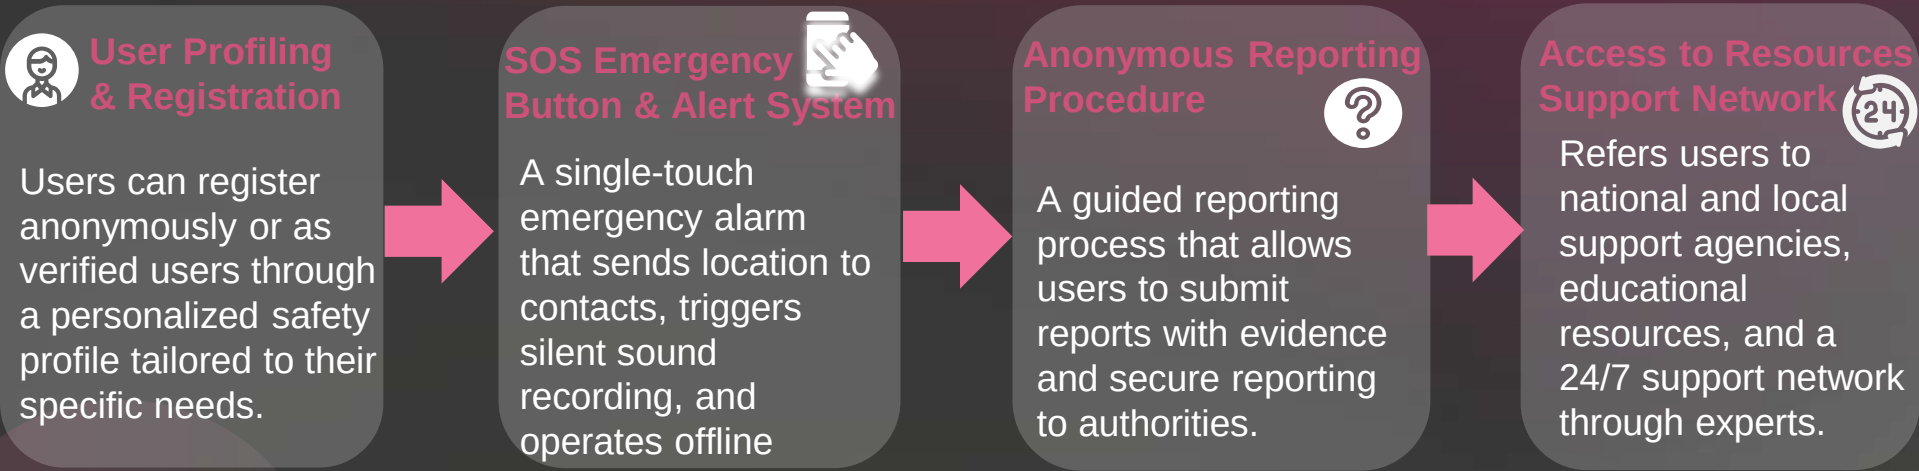

SafeCircle

04

How SafeCircle Works

The system operates through four interconnected elements:

05

KEY FEATURES

Emergency Resources

SafeCircle provides a panic button, real-time location tracking, and a 24/7 helpline for immediate assistance.

Anonymity and Privacy

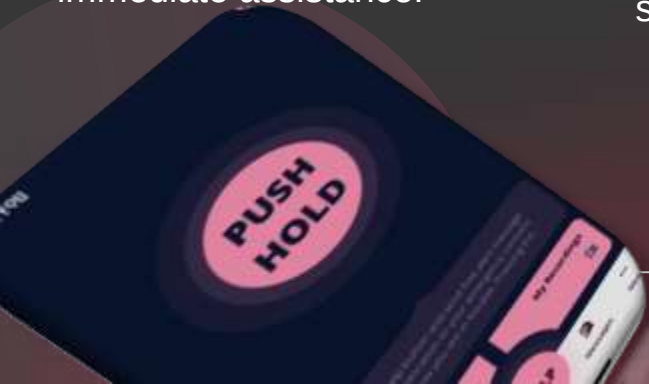

The app offers anonymous reporting and secure communication to ensure victims feel safe in seeking help

Community Support

SafeCircle fosters a community-driven approach by connecting users with support agencies and resources.

Education and Prevention

The app includes educational content on GBV, helping to raise awareness and prevent future incidents.

Community Impact

06

Breaking the Cycle of Silence

SafeCircle empowers survivors to speak up against GBV, helping to break the cycle of silence and encourage communities to take action against GBV

Coordinated Response

The app connects disparate support services, reducing intervention time from 27+ minutes to under 8 minutes.

Prevention Through Education

SafeCircle also promotes early warning sign recognition and better relationship norms all over the community.

Sustainable Support

The app fosters local capacity by engaging volunteer networks and peer support and developing long-term community resilience.

Business Model and Support Strategy

Support and Maintenance

- A helpdesk that is open 24 hours long
- Bug Reporting System
- Monthly Security updates
- Regular surveys to receive user feedback
- Optimizing app speed and responsiveness
- Ensuring compatibility with new device and operating system

Funding Strategy

- Apply for grants from organizations that are focused on gender-based violence such as UN Women and Open Society Foundations
- Launch crowd funding campaigns on platforms like GoFundMe in-order to receive donations from individuals interested in the app
- Propose collaboration with government departments of social development
- Partner with tech companies for example Google.org or Microsoft Philanthropies and local telecoms or banks

Conclusion & Call To Action

SafeCircle goes beyond the scope of an ordinary mobile application; it is a vital tool for many victims of gender-based violence in South Africa

Your gift will help us:

- Increase this vital resource
- Save lives
- Create enduring change

Together, we have the potential to:

- Break the cycle of the existing culture of silence
- Reduce response times
- Support the creation of stronger and more secure communities

Together, we can break the silence, empower survivors, and build a safer future for all.

“When we keep quiet, when we look the other way, we are complicit. We are condoning. We are conniving when in fact we do not visibly and practically speak out and call each other out”
